

Reflection Questions: Correcting Behaviors

1. What behavior does your child exhibit that you want to correct?
2. Whenever you correct your child's behavior, does it result in your child doing what is asked?
3. Do you give in to your child's tantrum behaviors?
4. Are you able to remain calm? If not, what will you do to control your emotions?
5. What is the most important thing you learned during this lesson?
6. What do you plan to do differently as a result of what you learned?

Evaluate your answers.

Correcting Behaviors is used when you have given an instruction and your child does not comply or is defiant. The purpose of Correcting Behaviors is to refocus your child on what they need to do. The most important part of Correcting Behaviors is to remain calm and consistent.